

INSTRUCTIONS FOR FLORIDA SUPREME COURT APPROVED FAMILY LAW
FORM 12.980(a)
PETITION FOR INJUNCTION FOR PROTECTION AGAINST DOMESTIC VIOLENCE (11/15)

When should this form be used?

If you are a victim of any act of domestic violence or have reasonable cause to believe that you are in imminent danger of becoming a victim of domestic violence, you can use this form to ask the court for a protective order prohibiting domestic violence. Because you are making a request to the court, you are called the petitioner. The person whom you are asking the court to protect you from is called the respondent. Domestic violence includes: assault, aggravated assault, battery, aggravated battery, sexual assault, sexual battery, stalking, aggravated stalking, kidnapping, false imprisonment, or any other criminal offense resulting in physical injury or death to petitioner by any of petitioner's family or household members. In determining whether you have reasonable cause to believe you are in imminent danger of becoming a victim of domestic violence, the court must consider all relevant factors alleged in the petition, including, but not limited to the following:

1. The history between the petitioner and the respondent, including threats, harassment, stalking, and physical abuse.
2. Whether the respondent has attempted to harm the petitioner or family members or individuals closely associated with the petitioner.
3. Whether the respondent has threatened to conceal, kidnap, or harm the petitioner's child or children.
4. Whether the respondent has intentionally injured or killed a family pet.
5. Whether the respondent has used, or has threatened to use, against the petitioner any weapons such as guns or knives.
6. Whether the respondent has physically restrained the petitioner from leaving the home or calling law enforcement.
7. Whether the respondent has a criminal history involving violence or the threat of violence.
8. The existence of a verifiable order of protection issued previously or from another jurisdiction.
9. Whether the respondent has destroyed personal property, including, but not limited to, telephones or other communications equipment, clothing, or other items belonging to the petitioner.
10. Whether the respondent engaged in any other behavior or conduct that leads the petitioner to have reasonable cause to believe that he or she is in imminent danger of becoming a victim of domestic violence.

The domestic violence laws only apply to your situation if the respondent is your spouse, former spouse, related to you by blood or marriage, living with you now or has lived with you in the past (if you are or were living as a family), or the other parent of your child(ren) whether or not you have ever been married or ever lived together. With the exception of persons who have a child in common, the family or household members must be currently residing together or have in the past resided together in the same single dwelling unit. If the respondent is not one of the above, you should look at Petition for Injunction for Protection Against Repeat Violence, Florida Supreme Court Approved Family Law Form 12.980(f), to determine if your situation will qualify for an injunction for protection against repeat violence, or Petition for Injunction for Protection Against Dating Violence, Florida Supreme Court Approved Family Law Form 12.980(n), to determine if your situation will qualify for an injunction for protection against dating violence, or Petition for Injunction for Protection Against Sexual Violence, Florida Supreme Court Approved Family Law Form 12.980(q), to determine if your situation will qualify for an injunction for protection against sexual violence.

If you are under the age of eighteen and you have never been married or had the disabilities of nonage removed by a court, then one of your parents, custodians, or your legal guardian must sign this petition with you.

This form should be typed or printed in black ink. You should complete this form (giving as much detail as possible) and sign it in front of a notary public or the clerk of the circuit court in the county where you live. The clerk will take your completed petition to a judge. You should keep a copy for your records. If you have any questions or need assistance completing this form, the clerk or family law intake staff will help you.

What should I do if the judge grants my petition?

If the facts contained in your petition convince the judge that you are a victim of domestic violence or that an imminent danger of domestic violence exists, the judge will sign either an immediate Temporary Injunction for Protection Against Domestic Violence with Minor Child(ren), Florida Supreme Court Approved Family Law Form 12.980(c)(1) or an immediate Temporary Injunction for Protection Against Domestic Violence without Minor Child(ren), Florida Supreme Court Approved Family Law Form 12.980(c)(2). A temporary injunction is issued without notice to the respondent. The clerk will give your petition, the temporary injunction, and any other papers filed with your petition to the sheriff or other law enforcement officer for personal service on the respondent. The temporary injunction will take effect immediately after the respondent is served with a copy of it. It lasts until a full hearing can be held or for a period of 15 days, whichever comes first. The court may extend the temporary injunction beyond 15 days for a good reason, which may include failure to obtain service on the respondent.

The temporary injunction is issued ex parte. This means that the judge has considered only the information presented by one side-- YOU. The temporary injunction gives a date that you must appear in court for a hearing. At that hearing, you will be expected to testify about the facts in your petition. The respondent will be given the opportunity to testify at this hearing, also. At the hearing, the judge will decide whether to issue either a Final Judgment of Injunction for Protection Against Domestic Violence with Minor Child(ren)(After Notice), Florida Supreme Court Approved Family Law Form 12.980(d)(1), or a Final Judgment of Injunction for Protection Against Domestic Violence without Minor Child(ren)(After Notice), Florida Supreme Court Approved Family Law Form 12.980(d)(2). Either of these final judgments will remain in effect for a specific time period or until modified or dissolved by the court. If either you or the respondent do not appear at the final hearing, the temporary injunction may be continued in force, extended, or dismissed, and/or additional orders may be granted, including entry of a permanent injunction and the imposition of court costs. You and respondent will be bound by the terms of any injunction issued at the final hearing.

IF EITHER YOU OR RESPONDENT DO NOT APPEAR AT THE FINAL HEARING, YOU WILL BOTH BE BOUND BY THE TERMS OF ANY INJUNCTION ISSUED IN THIS MATTER.

If the judge signs a temporary or final injunction, the clerk will provide you with the necessary copies. Make sure that you keep one certified copy of the injunction with you at all times!

What can I do if the judge denies my petition?

If your petition is denied solely on the grounds that it appears to the court that no imminent danger of domestic violence exists, the court will set a full hearing, at the earliest possible time, on your petition, unless you request that no hearing be set. The respondent will be notified by personal service of your petition and the hearing. If your petition is denied, you may: amend your petition by filing a Supplemental Affidavit in Support of Petition for Injunction for Protection Against Domestic Violence, Repeat or Dating Violence, Florida Family Law Form 12.980 (g); attend the hearing and present facts that support your petition; and/or dismiss your petition.

Where can I look for more information?

Before proceeding, you should read General Information for Self-Represented Litigants found at the beginning of these forms. The words that are in bold underline are defined in that section. The clerk of the circuit court or family law intake staff will help you complete any necessary domestic violence forms and can give you information about local domestic violence victim assistance programs, shelters, and other related services. (Use additional sheets if necessary.)

On {date} 4/30, at {location} 100 Main Street,

Respondent:

Last night, we started arguing during dinner. He was saying that I am cheating on him. I kept telling him that I would never do that, but he said he did not believe me and said horrible things, cursing me, and calling me names. He kept getting more mad, and I finally told him to stop or get out. I said I am so tired of fighting, nothing is better and maybe we should get a divorce. He threw his fork, got up and came over right in my face and yelled, "NEVER!", with that crazy look in his eyes. He backed up, so I got up and went over to the sink. I turned around and he threw a dish at me. He missed me, but it broke into pieces. I started crying because it was one of my grandmother's plates. I ran to the living room to call someone for help, but he beat me there. He grabbed my phone and started going through my calls and text messages and asking questions. He said he knew there was someone else. I promised that there wasn't, but he smashed my phone anyway. I begged him to stop, to calm down, that he was scaring me again. That made him mad. He said he would give me something to be scared about. He pinned me against the wall, balled up his fist, and pulled it back like he was going to punch me. He punched a hole in the wall beside me instead. I wanted to scream but I was too scared to move. I stood there shaking.

~~He said I would regret making him mad and breaking up our family. He said if I try to get a divorce, he will take the kids and I won't see them again.~~ the kids, and I will never see them again. He kept saying that if he could not have me, then nobody else would and I better remember that forever. Then he stormed out like he always does and peeled out of the driveway. My neighbor Olivia came over. She cleaned up the glass and sat with me for a while. I called the police from the kitchen phone. An officer finally came. I told him everything that happened. He said that he was really sorry but that he could not really do anything because I did not have any proof of my story and that Joe did not hit me or anything. I told him I was so scared that Joe may come back later and of what he may do. He told me he could not keep Joe away from the house because it is his property. He said that I could ask the court for help, and he gave me a brochure for the domestic violence center. After the officer left, I was so upset, so I went to my friend Kelly's house. I am just so confused about all this. Things were going better for a while, and I really thought Joe had changed. I don't know what happened. He moved out a couple of months ago after a big fight, but we were trying to work things out to keep our family together. Last time, I came home from work and gave my tips to Joe just like always. He was sitting on the porch drinking beer, and there were a lot of empty cans around. He asked why it was only $40, and I told him we were slow. He did not believe me. He started screaming and saying that I was hiding money from him. He said he would kill me if he found out I was keeping money for myself. He gets really nuts about money, and I have to give him receipts for everything. He even checks the miles on the car to make sure I did not go anywhere else but work. I was really saving a little money for his birthday present. Anyway, he tore the house apart looking for it. He was yelling and turning drawers over and dumping them on the floor. The kids sat with me on the couch crying and afraid to move or say anything. I did not know what he would do if he found my hiding spot. He finally got tired of looking and said he was leaving to go to the bar. He said that I better have the house cleaned up when he got back or I would be sorry. I was so upset. The kids and I all slept in my room and locked the door. He came home around 2 in the morning and was furious. He was beating on the door and saying he would leave me if I did not open the door. Then, it got really quiet. I heard him leave a little while later. When I woke up, I saw all my family pictures and pages from the kid's scrapbooks chopped into pieces on the coffee table. He knows how much I love them, and now I can never get those back.

He went to stay with his brother after that. He called every day all day long, he apologized a lot, and he kept giving the kids and me presents. I started spending more time with him again because he said he was just drunk that night and had stopped drinking. I am so stupid for believing him and letting him move back in. He has always had this bad temper. I found out he was arrested and in jail for attacking one of his old girlfriends. He said she made it all up, but she says he pushed her down the stairs and that she was pregnant. I know he was really mean when I was pregnant and jealous all the time. I am tired of forgiving him and want him to leave me alone. He called so many times last night and early this morning that I had to turn my phone off to sleep. I don't know what to do, please help me.
